

PLACES

Locations, realms, fissures, archives, and recurring sites of significance in the Slayverse.

SCHLOSS EISENSANG [MODERATE]

- Type: Castle / origin site
- Era: 12th century
- Source: [p.34, p.43, p.45; canon/slayverse_index.json]

The castle beneath which lies the Mirror Cavern. It is the origin point associated with Hildebrand von Hooplehopper, whose disappearance establishes the earliest known Hooplehopper mystery.

Relationships:

- Contains or stands above the Mirror Cavern
- Associated with Hildebrand's disappearance

MIRROR CAVERN [MODERATE]

- Aliases: Mirror Chamber
- Type: Subterranean chamber / portal site / retrocausal wound
- Era: 12th century, with possible retrocausal origin
- Source: [p.34, p.43; canon/slayverse_index.json; canon/cosmology/cosmology.md]

A subterranean chamber beneath Schloss Eisensang, where Hildebrand vanished. Later cosmology suggests the cavern may be a retrocausal artifact of the Federstahl Lattice fracture: a wound in spacetime deposited into the medieval past. [PENDING REVIEW]

Canon Notes:

- Hildebrand's disappearance marks the earliest recorded human encounter with the future catastrophe echoing backward. [PENDING REVIEW]
- The Mirror Cavern sits at the crossing point between the Hooplehopper origin myth and the Federstahl temporal mechanics.

SCHLOSS FEDERSTAHL [FULL]

- Type: Ancestral estate / swan lake site / archive-adjacent location
- Era: 19th century onward
- Source: [p.34, p.44, p.46, p.55, p.95; canon/slayverse_index.json]

The ancestral estate associated with Lisette von Hooplehopper, the Professor, the swan lake, the cracked mirror, and the sealed Forbidden Suitcase. The estate carries the fading grandeur of the old world and the unresolved residue of Federstahl history.

Key Details:

- Lisette was raised beside the swan lake.
- A sacred mirror at Federstahl remains cracked and untouched since 2005.
- The Forbidden Suitcase is hidden beneath the floorboards and has not been opened since 1938.

Relationships:

- Home site for Lisette's formative mythology
- Connected to The Forbidden Suitcase
- Connected to Federstahl research and Hooplehopper memory

MCCULLEN RANCH / POWDER RIVER BASIN [FULL]

- Aliases: Powder River Basin
- Type: Ranch / temporal faultline / Season 1 primary location
- Era: 19th century onward
- Source: [p.91-p.97; canon/SLAYVERSE_TV_SERIES_BIBLE.md; canon/slayverse_index.json]

Jake McCullen's ranch in Wyoming, built over the last accessible temporal fissure. It contains the buried crystal shard, unmarked graves, and the land-based horror of the Season 1 story.

Key Details:

- Pop buried the surviving Federstahl crystal node beneath the ranch.
- Failed attempts to open ribbon gates left unmarked graves on the property.
- The ranch is the grounded doorway into the TV series.
- Season 1 should never leave Wyoming or the ranch for long.

Canon Notes:

- Season 1 is about Jake McCullen learning that the wound beneath his ranch and the silence around his mother are the same wound.
- The show is not "space cowboys"; it is a cowboy standing on cosmically contaminated ground.

THE WYOMING RIFT [FULL]

- Type: Temporal fissure / active wound in time
- Era: Post-Lattice Fracture
- Source: [p.95-p.103; canon/SLAYVERSE_TV_SERIES_BIBLE.md; canon/cosmology/cosmology.md; canon/slayverse_index.json]

One of seven fissures created by the Federstahl Lattice Incident. It is the only fissure still active and unclaimed, buried beneath the McCullen Ranch in the Powder River Basin.

Properties:

- Requires a Guardian Lineage bonded to its harmonic code.
- Responds to blood resonance in the McCullen line.
- Bound to Jake McCullen as the last living key.

Canon Notes:

- Wyoming Rift is the TV entry point. [LOCKED]
- The Season 1 story treats the rift as both cosmological rupture and family wound.

THE VELVET ARCHIVE [FULL]

- Type: Living archive / repository of Hooplehopper knowledge
- Era: Timeless
- Source: [p.43, p.47, p.55, p.60, p.97; canon/slayverse_index.json]

The living repository of Hooplehopper knowledge. It does not die; it waits. Early codes of the Archive were embedded into stitching and textile craft, and surviving Federstahl research is sealed within its larger mythology.

Relationships:

- Associated with Conrad von Hooplehopper's stitched codes
- Connected to the Professor, VUORSE, and the Golden Wingers
- Functions as archive, memory system, and mythic authority

CLUB COSMIC [MODERATE]

- Type: Interdimensional drag cabaret
- Era: Timeless
- Source: [p.89, p.103; canon/creative_works.md; canon/slayverse_index.json]

An interdimensional drag cabaret orbiting the Andromeda fringe. DJ Parallax appears here as a time-displaced bard in a holographic corset. The site is also connected to performance texts such as "The Spark."

Key Details:

- Associated with DJ Parallax
- Contains or is connected to an ancient terminal beneath it for observing shard waveforms
- Hosts heightened performance material rather than grounded Wyoming naturalism

FEDERSTAHL NEBULA OUTPOST V [SKETCHED]

- Type: Summit site / cosmic outpost
- Source: [canon/rituals/rituals.md; canon/relationships/relationship_map.md]

The site named in connection with the Invocation of the Sixth Summit. It is associated with twin moons, the Mirrorfire, and the high altar used in ceremonial Golden Wingers context.

Canon Notes: The location is referenced but not developed in detail.

MOONBASE OPERA HOUSE [HOOK ONLY]

- Type: Moonbase / performance venue
- Source: [canon/open_threads.md]

A location where Golden Wingers hold annual galactic pageants judged by the spirit of Eartha Kitt.

Opportunity: Could support an annual event format for Slayverse storytelling.

THE VELVET UNDERGROUND WYOMING HIDEAWAY [HOOK ONLY]

- Type: Hidden Wyoming location / bridge site
- Source: [canon/open_threads.md, p.100]

A possible physical location near the McCullen Ranch containing an astral transport lounge, a 1940s jukebox, and a mirror that tells cosmic ancestry.

Opportunity: Could bridge the Hooplehopper and McCullen storylines while staying geographically close to the Season 1 Wyoming entry point.
